

Player Tickets or Wallets?

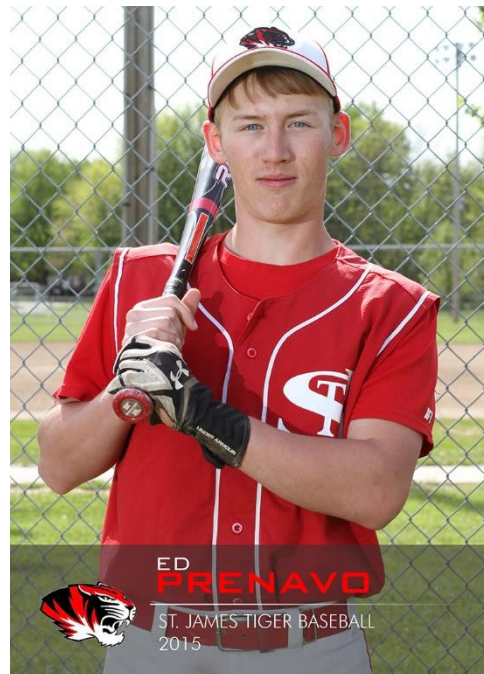

“What is the difference between player tickets and wallets?” is a question parents frequently ask when I’m shooting youth sports teams.

Quite simply the difference is the size and design. Player tickets are literally meant to look like a sports game ticket that you might have for admission to a baseball, football or hockey game. They are 2 inches by 6 inches in design and feature the photo of the youth player along with team information, player name and jersey number. Ten tickets print to a sheet and we cut them apart for you.

Whereas, the wallets are a more traditional photo 2 ½ inches by 3 ½ inches in size. Like the player tickets the wallet features the photo of the player along with team information player name and jersey number. Twelve wallets print to a sheet and we cut them apart for you.

Samples

Wallets

Player Tickets

ADMIT ONE

Coac
Scott
Beau
Jon f
Mike

ining • W...ding
lub • Tro... John's
.LC • Mar...ops Co
nk • Hu... • De
nter • Co...den Cer
Fitness • ...d Sales

33

HYDEN FAULLNER

2015
SAINT JAMES SLUGGERS

22

ED
PRENAVO

ST. JAMES TIGER BASEBALL 2015